

University of Kentucky Vocal Competition for Young Singers
Frequently Asked Questions
FAQ's

Q: Will an accompanist be provided?

A: Yes. There will be an experienced & proficient collaborative pianist to play for the participants.

Q: May I bring my own accompanist to the competition?

A: No. For consistency & objectivity, we ask that each singer use the collaborative pianist provided by UK Opera Theatre.

Q: Will I have rehearsal time with the accompanist prior to singing in the competition?

A: No. There is not adequate time to accommodate rehearsals. However, we highly recommend that every singer rehearse with a live accompanist prior to singing in the competition, as well as spend ample rehearsal with an accompaniment track.

Q: Do I need to mail copies of my music in advance?

A: No. On the day of competition, please bring your music neatly copied front-to back & placed in a 3-ring binder with tabs separating your pieces. If the pianist is playing from a book, please make sure the pages easily turn and that each piece is clearly marked with a tab.

Q: May I change my repertoire after I submit my application?

A: Yes. You may change your repertoire after submitting your application. However, because there is an audience there will be a printed/digital program. For the correct repertoire to be listed in the program, the competition administrator must be notified no later than 10 days before the competition. If the administrator is not notified at least 10 days in advance, the singer may still change their repertoire (although not encouraged). The singer will walk on stage and notify the accompanist of the song change, then clearly announce their name & any repertoire changes to the audience & judges before singing the first selection. Please notify the competition administrator of repertoire changes even if it is less than 10 days prior to competition so the judges can be notified.

Q: Do I need to wear formal attire to the competition?

A: No. It is not necessary or encouraged to wear formal attire. We do recommend business, cocktail, or professional attire in which you can confidently take the stage and sing with poise. Bear in mind your appearance will make an impression on the judges.

Q: Is this competition open to the public?

A: Absolutely! Friends & family are encouraged to come support their loved ones for both the semi-final & final rounds of the competition.

Q: Do I need to attend the entire day of the competition?

A: Yes. To win a prize, you are required to sing in both the semi-final & final rounds of the competition. It is at the discretion of the singer whether they wish to stay after singing in the semi-final round. The finalists will be announced AFTER the lunch break. It is highly encouraged that singers support their colleagues, as well as take the opportunity to hear repertoire other than what they already perform.

Q: Is there a time limit for each singer?

A: Yes. Each singer will be allotted 7 minutes to perform in each round. If a singer happens to go over 7 minutes, a stage manager will call time.

Q: Do I get to choose what pieces I perform in the semi-final round?

A: You will announce to the audience & judges the first piece of your choice. The judges will select the second piece. Time permitting, 2 pieces will be sung in the semi-final round.

Q: If I make it to the final round, will I perform all 3 pieces?

A: No. Singers selected for the final round will perform the first piece of their choice and then must perform the 3rd piece that was not previously selected in the semi-final round. It is at the discretion of the singer with which piece they begin. A 7-minute time allotment will be observed in the final round.

There will be photos available to participants in the weeks following the competition. At this time, we cannot disclose whether they will be of professional or high amateur quality.

Q: If I am a prizewinner, will I get a check on the day of the competition?
